GREAT GAME ON SATURDAY

Lock Haven Normal and Bellefonte Academy Met

THE SCORE WAS TIE

Although Lock Haven Claimed to Have Won the Game—Academy Boys Withdrew on Account of Rank Decisions.

IT WAS AN IDEAL FOOT BALL DAY

Saturday was a gala day in Bellefonte for the football enthusiasts. The record of the Lock Haven Normal School had been a brilliant one. They had not lost a single game during the season, had not even allowed any team to play them to a standstill, nor had a single score been made against them. The Academy eleven had only been defeated three times during a very hard schedule once by "Kiski" which defeat they redeemed by out playing the Western champions at State College last Monday, once by Williamsport High School by the narrow margin of 5-6 which defeat they expect to redeem at Williamsport on Thanksgiving day, and once by the Lock Haven Normal eleven. The knowledge of these facts led all lovers of the sport to believe that a close and exciting struggle would be produced when these two teams should face each other for the second time on the gridiron; and so every body planned to go and see the sport. A special train from Lock Haven brought 150 "rooters" who paraded the streets during the hours preceding the game bedecked in their colors of red and white, giving Bellefonte the appearance of one of our cities on the occasion of a big game.

When three o'clock arrived, an immense crowd had gathered at the scene of conflict prepared to see what proved to be the most interesting and exciting contest ever witnessed in this vicinity. It was a pity, indeed, that it was marred, as it undoubtedly was by the prompt and unsatisfactory way in which it terminated. Hirshman of State College by his excellent coaching had the Academy players prepared to play the game of their lives against the best team Lock Haven Normal ever had—a team composed of players far older, heavier and more experienced than themselves; and the large crowd of rooters along the side lines waving the gold and the blue proved an inspiration to the boys from the Hill, that never can be measured. When the whisle blew for the game to start every one seemed to be in a state of anxiety as to whether the Academy could hold down such sturdy opponents but a few minutes of play only had passed when the faces of the Normal "rooters" became anxious and the Academy friends looked agreeably surprised and very hopeful for the Academy team by line plunges, forward passes and long kicks were pressing the enemy yard after yard until they finally made a desperate stand on their two yard line. Here again history repeated itself and by a fumble inexcusable a splendid chance to score was lost. The Academy backs became so anxious to score and thought it was so easy to do at that distance that they failed to listen properly to their signals. It was a bitter pill to swallow, for nothing could have prevented a touchdown, if the home boys had just "kept their heads." From that moment it was "nip and tuck," neither side being able to cross the line for a touchdown. It is the general opinion that the Academy had the better of the argument, though the Normals made some pretty spurts now and then in the form of a well directed end run or a criss cross trick.

During the intermission the coaches gave their teams some stiff advice, but the fierce play on both sides seemed to make a score impossible—and yet there was plenty of the spectacular feature present during the entire contest to keep the spectators on the edge of excitement for 43 minutes of play. The abrupt ending of the game, which was a disappointment to everyone, was due to a decision of the Normal referee. Seven minutes of play remained, neither side had scored, the Normals had the ball at the fifty yard line. The ball was passed to a back who never moved out of his tracks and passed it forward to his players. The ball struck the ground was picked up on the bound by a normal player and carried over the line. The normal official declared it a touchdown, to do anything else of course, would have made him very unpopular at home. The Academy players and friends declared the decision unfair because of two alleged violations, first the man who passed the ball should have run out 5 yards before passing and, secondly, the ball must touch a player before it hits the ground—this the Academy players claims it did not do.

To yield to the decision would concede the game. This the Academy players and friends decided should not be done and the game ended. The lesson learned is that disinterested officials must officiate hereafter. This is the first game in the foot-ball history of the Academy where a dispute terminated a game so abruptly. The normals went home sadly disappointed because they reasonably hoped to win by two or three touchdowns and planned for a jubilating time upon their return to Lock Haven.

PRETTY WEDDING AT BEAVER FALLS.

Miss Lula Pacini United in Marriage to Mr. William Cunningham.

Wedneeday Miss Lula Pacini became the wife of Mr. William Cunningham. The happy event occurred at Beaver Falls. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Joseph Werly at the St. Mary's Cathredral. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white silk covered with cream chiffon and lace and hat to match. She carried a handsome boquet of roses. She was attended as brides maid by Miss Mary Boyle and the best man was Mr. Joseph McMahon.

After the ceremony a lovely reception was held, attended by a great many guests from Bellefonte and Pittsburg. Among the guests present from Bellefonte were Miss Mary Pacini and Miss Mame Strunk. After the reception and wedding dinner the bride and groom left on the evening train for Cleveland Ohio where they will syend part of their honey moon They will visit other western cities throughout Ohio and Pennsylvania. On their return they will go to house keeping at Beaver Falls where the groom has a home already furnished for his bride.

The young folks mentioned above are very well known in Bellefonte and this happy wedding is only the culmination of a long courtship.

The bride is a very pretty young lady and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of making a happy and pleasant home. She has a sweet disposition and we know she will be a splendid helpmate through life.

The groom. (Hennie as we use to call him at school) is one of the best scouts that ever came down the pike. He is a moulder by trade and has worked for the Standard Scale Company for years. He holds a good position with these people and they realize in him a splendid workman. He will do his share in making the home a happy one. We join in with the friends of this young couple to wish them the joy and peace that passeth all understanding, and may a shadow never cross their path way.

Dividend to go to 52,000

The list of Pennsylvania railroad stockholders who will participate in the November dividend, payable Nov. 30, has been finally made up and approximates 52,000. This is the greatest number to participate in a dividend and is an increase of 7,000 over the number participating in the dividend of six months ago, the number then being 45,496.

The greatest increase in the number of shareholders was during the month of October, when the low price at which the stock was selling attracted many small investors and a considerable number of larger ones. On October 1st the number of stockholders registered was 49,572, so that the increase from that day to November 4th the last day for dividend registration, shows an increase of about 2,500. The present number of shareholders is even greater than the approimate number of 52,000 registered for dividend purposes, the increase in the holders of a small number of shares having continued steadily throughout November to the present date.

DANCING AND SKATING

Thanksgiving Day 1907 in Bellefonte Will be a day Long to be Remembered.

MISS HEINLES RECITAL AND DANCE.

Beginning Monday night The Theatorium will gave a delightful entertainment every evening, and very likely a matinee on this afternoon at 4:15 The pictures all this week will be something extra fine and a special effort is being made to have the best music possible for these entertainments. For ten cents you can go and be entertained for a whole hour. If you do not skate or dance take ten of your friends, say you do spend a dollar, be generous and open up and spend an evening of pleasure at the Theatorium.

MISS HEINLE'S RECITAL AND DANCE.

Miss Bettie Heinle and Miss Bertha Collins delightfully entertained a large audience in the Masonic Auditorium on Wednesday evening. This was Miss Heinle's second appearance before a Bellefonte audience and her entertainment on Thanksgiving eve was more successful than her first.

From start to finish she held her listeners as if by magic and after each part she was asked to respond to an encore. One to hold an audience in the manner in which Miss Heinle did on Wednesday evening certainly ranks with professionals and she deserves the greatest credit and praise for her work.

Her gestures and movements on the stage are varied, she has complete control of herself, at times she can be graceful and pretty and in a moment's time she can transform her beauty to a being that is horrid to look at or a poor ignorant country boy or girl.

She was very ably assisted in her recital by Miss Bertha Collins. Miss Collins controls a voice of rare culture. She was encored after each solo, showing that the audience greatly appreciated her singing.

Mr. Smith orchestra pleased the audience by their delightful music. After the recital a dance was held and this part of the program was enjoyed by every one present.

The program was as follows:

PART ONE

1. "The Heart of a Woman"....Phelps
2. Selection.....Miss Collins
3. "Bessie and her Little Brown Bear".....Norworth
4. Selection.....Miss Collins

PART TWO.

1. "School Days".....Cobb & Edwards
2. Selection.....Miss Collins
3. Impersonation from "The Music Master."
5. (a) "When Malindy Sings"....Dunbar.

(b) "The Corn-Stalk Fiddle"..Dunbar.

THE SKATING RINK.

Perhaps one of the gayest places of the season is at the Skating Rink. The crowds have been so large of late that Mr. Taylor has not had enough skates for all. On Thursday and Saturday afternoon's and evenings the rink will be in full sway. During the evenings a large orchestra will be present to furnish delightful music for the skaters. This afternoon and evening Mr. Taylor has arranged for a special attraction. Some thing that will greatly amuse the people. If you don't skate you should certainly learn for it is one of the greatest sports of the season. It is also a pleasure to go and listen to the beautiful music. Comfortable chairs are there for you to sit, on and to see some of them slide around over the floor is certainly funny. The skating rink for us to have a good time.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES IN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

There is a time for all things, a time to laugh, sing, and dance and to worship God. this morning at 10:30 the good people of the town will assemble in the Presbyterian church on Spring street and offer up their prayers and praises to God for the Blessings bestowed upon us during the past year. Rev Fred Barry of the Lutheran church has been chosen to preach the Thanksgiving sermon. Special music has been prepared for the occasion and the services all through will be impressive and uplifting. This morning at 10:30 in the Presbyterian church. You are cordially invited, no matter what church you belong to.

MISS CRISSMAN'S ASSEMBLY.

Miss Eva Crissman will hold her annual Thanksgiving assembly in the Bush Arcade ball room to night. These assembly's have always proven a success in past years and the young folks of the town always look forward to this time when they shall end this great holiday in attending Miss Crissman's dance. It being a holiday in all the colleges over the country a great many of our young ladies and gentlemen who are attending school of this kind are expected home and will of course be seen at this assembly. A number of the students from State College will be down and from all reports this affair promises to be a greater success than in former years. Mr. Smith's famous orchestra of eight pieces will be present to furnish the music for the occasion. Don't forget this is to be Thanksgiving night in the Bush Arcade ball room.

HARRY OTTO'S ASSEMBLY.

Mr. Otto who started a dancing school early in the fall for young ladies and gentlemen has proven a wonderful success in the work. We noticed a great many of his pupils at the dance given at the skating rink several weeks ago and every one could dance just as pretty as many of those who claim to be professionals at the art. In order to repay these young folks for attending regularly Mr. Otto will hold an Assembly in the Logan House Ball room to-night. He has about eighty pupils who will take advantage of this rare treat. Mr. Deitrick's Orchestra that has won quite a reputation of late for their excellent playing will furnish the music for this dance.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE AT THE PAROCHIAL HALL.

The Ladies of the St. John's Catholic church will hold one of their pleasant euchres on Thanksgiving night in the Hall next to the church. These euchres have always proven a success in the past and we feel sure that this one will be just as successful. These euchre's are not confined to just the members of this denomination, but every one in town who wishes to attend will be made perfectly welcome. Prizes are given to the lady or gentlemen making the greatest number of points. We feel quite sure that if you attend one of these euchre's you will go to every one held by these ladies. Thanksgiving night in the Parochial Hall on Bishop street.

Team Stolen.

Last week there was a surprise in store for the Dale & Bennet lumber company at Gum Stump. When they went to their stable they found their two horses missing, and the doors wide open. Mr. Bennet telephoned to Mr. Dale in Bellefonte and he sent word by phone to all points about the county, to be on the watch for the missing team.

Monday morning the suspense was broken by the two horses being found coming down the road from Snow Shoe. The fact that both horses left the stable at night with the halters also missing and were without the halters when found leads them to the conclusion that they certainly were taken by some one, who fearing detection turned them loose again and naturally they started homeward. The telephone makes horsestealing a very risky undertaking these days.

Not a Legal Holiday

Thursday, December 12th, all business about the office of the Recorder of Centre county will be practically suspended and all the other county officials will cease operations, more or less. There will be sufficient occasion for all the hilarity and joyous levity that will prevail, and a special effort will be made to properly celebrate an event, which will take place in Altoona that day, as it is announced that our friend John C. Rowe, the Recorder, will lead to altar Miss Myra Armstrong, of Altoona as his bride.

We do not know whether we are violating a confidence by making this announcement, but we could not keep it a secret any longer, and hasten to extend our congratulations to our popular county official upon his approaching nuptials. Nothing is too good for Jonny Rowe.

CROWDS WERE LARGE

The Daily News and Republican have Furnished the Most Complete Account of the Proceedings.

TEACHERS HAVE GONE HOME.

The second talk of the morning was by Dr. Miller, on "great Duels of the World." Dr. Miller outlined the history of the duel, from its origin in the hot blooded vendetta of the southern races, down to its gradual extinction in the United States. He dwelt particularly on the duel in America.

The first America duel said the speaker, was an important affair between two servants, held on Boston Common. Nevertheless the duel occupies a little later an all to prominent place in our history. We remember Andrew Jackson killed his man in a duel, Gen. Lee fought, and the fate of Hamilton is all too well known.

A very famous duel was Decatur's fight with Commodore Baron.—the death of the hero, Henry Clay and Senator Randolph of Virginia had well known encounter, which ended, fortunately, in no loss of life. Clay shot thro Randolph's coat. With a smile Randolph advanced, grasped the orator's hand and exclaimed, "Wm. Clay, you owe me a new coat." "Thank God, Randolph," rejoiced Clay "that I owe you no more." A very bitter and ugly quarrel resulted in the duel between Congressman Cully of Maine and Graves of Kentucky.

A relentless duel, which set national feeling strongly against the practise, was the encounter between Senator Broderick of California and Judge Terry of the California Supreme Bench. Broderick was killled. Terry escaped only to lose his life in the flight.

Dr. Gordinier spoke on "Words" There are two views, said the speaker, as to its origin of language, either that it was reveled or was natoral to man.

If there was a parent language, how did it split up into the 3 great branches of speech? The speaker belives its origin was onomatopoetic, that is, words imitated sounds or ideas. "Honk honk", thus represents—automobile.

Our question is what constitutes the knowledge and understanding of a word?

First of all, the Orthography.

The objection to simplifie spelling is always that we lose sight of the derivation. Rational spelling would be, however, along our utilitarian lines. It would, however, greatly reduce our opportunity for punning.

Secondly, pronunciation.

For the foreigner our pronunciation is extremely difficult, due to our silent letters and our irrational vowel system. In every living language changes in pronunciation occur. Two tendencies are noticable today,—to shorten a long vowel, and to make the accent recessive.

The third point is Derivation. Our stock is Anglo Saxon plus Latin, with additions from every language in the world. Tracing of derivations is a most interesting and fascinating study.

Dr. Schaeffer, State Supt. of Schools, gave the first lecture of the afternoon, taking for his subject "The greatest Thing in Education."

The 18th of May, said Dr. Schaeffer will in a few years be not only a national but an international holiday. Why? On May 18th 1899, the first Peace Conference met at the Hague, Holland, making undoubtedly an important turning point in history. This conference, although practically ignored by the newspapers at the time, was really productive of the greatest results, only a few of which are evident as yet. As a matter of actual fact, the conference led to the signing of 45 treaties of arbitration between important nations, to the settlement of 60 international disputes since its adjournment.

The idea of the conference was suggested to the Russian Czar, who convened it, by the book of a Polish banker, Block, "The Future of War."

This important book sets forth clearly, impressively two great points:

1. Any first class war today must be followed in not many months by famine. Only three European countries produce more stable foods than they consume, and a month or so of closed ports would inevitably exhaust them. This has just happened to Japan, it would most certainly happen to England, and is the prime reason for the existance of her enormous navy.

2. Fire arms and high explosives have taken from war all its old attractiveness and romance. Sharp-shooters silently and invisibly pick off the officers of a two miles distant column, machine guns have rendered the old time charge forever impossible, bomb-dropping, balloons threaten to annihilate cities with a single missle. Evidently peace—universal peace must soon be inevitable.

How can the teacher in particular, help in the advent on peace?

First of all by making the questions in our history examinations more rational. Let us endeavor to teach history so as to glorify above the victories of war, the victories of peace. They are not wanting nor unimportant.

Next, let us strive to inculcate better ideals of heroism. The girl who begins a study of history meets at once with a sad fact—She has no place in those pages. To wear a uniform, to carry a gun, are things not given to the woman; and yet they are things too often exalted as the greatest things of life. But in reality the best things of life are not war, and the things of war, but those personal relations that one sustains toward his fellows and towards his Creator. In this realm the woman is queen. The nurse who enters the hospital is often braver than the soldier, the man who doubles the yield of one acre of land is more valuable to civilization then the great commander. What heroism can equal that of the two young doctors who lately gave their bodies and as a result their lives, to prove the infection of Yellow Fever by the misquito? Let us honor with, and perhaps above the Soldier, the Jurist, the Inventor, the Educator.

War, however, may be better or worse. The worse varieties are those waged for tributes, booty, territory, or personal ambition. Wars for great principles (like our Revolution), or wars in behalf of downtrodden humanity (like the late Spanish War) have an element of justification. But how much better the diplomatic settlement by arbitration.

Unknown to all but a few of us has taken place in late years an event which seems to deserve the title of the greatest event of the 19th Century. How many of us have heard of the "Christ of the Andes?" It was at this time when Chili and the Argentine Confederation were quarrilling over a strip of territory. National feeling ran high on both sides, and each territory expended a vast sum of money for battleships. War was imminent. Just then somebody preached a sermon. We tell of the decay of sermons, but here was a sermon that won a nation. It was a catholic bishop who came forward with an eloquent plea for peace. He showed how the money his own Argentine government had just expended for a warship more than equalled the value of the land in question, and if the ship should be lost, what a folly it all would be! His sermon spread, even to Chili. It brought the two nations to their senses. Arbitration was agreed upon, the dispute settled.

To celebrate this event, and firmly to cement the future friendship of the two nations, a gigantic statue, 20ft. in height of Christ as a Symbol of Peace, was erected high up in the Andes. The nations proclaimed a festival and dedicated it.

Let all of us, too, take Christ as our symbol, and enter eagerly into the work He leads.

Dr. Willis spoke on "Management." Not many are perfect disciplinarians, said the Doctor; not many are capable of a high order of control. Moreover most teachers who do exercise perfect control do so at a fatal outlay of nerve force and energy.

Discipline is not a thing we do, it is something we possess. We can, perhaps attain the elements of it to some degree, but hardly ever acquire perfection. A great disciplinarian is born so.

What now do we mean by perfect discipline in the school-room.

1. No communication or whispering between the students, of any sort whatever.
2. No form of profanity.
3. The entire abeence of vulgar jest and obecene jokes.
4. A wholesome respect for authority.
5. A respect for property.

Punishment, when necessary to preserve discipline should suit the case, and be dignified. They should moreover be invigorating toward better conduct and

BANKER IN JAIL.

President of Borough Bankof Brooklyn still a Prisoner

UNABLE TO GET BAIL

Result of the Grand jury's Investigation Into the Several Suspended Institutions—No Indictments found Yet.

OTHER MEN ARE UNDER BAIL

New York, November 23rd.—The grand jury investigation into several suspended Brooklyn banks which resulted Friday in the indictment of former officers of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn, was temporarily suspended today. It will probably be resumed with an inquiry into the affairs of the Jenkins Trust Company.

Edward Maxwell, former president of the suspended Borough Bank of Brooklyn, who was Friday indicted on the charge of larceny and forgery in the third degree, was still a prisoner in the county jail today, not having been able to furnish bail in the sum of $30,000.

Arthur D. Campbell, the deposed cashier of the bank, and William Gow, a director, who holds a controlling share of the bank's stock, who were also indicted are at Liberty on bail.

Although ten indictments already have been returned by the Kings County Grand jury in the Borough Bank looting case, the end is not yet.

That body is today continuing the investigation of the queer methods pursued in managing the institution's business, and it is expected that other persons yet may have to explain their actions in court.

Geo. Bush Imports two More Lots of Local Post Cards.

Mr. George Bush the "Post Card King" just received another consignment of ten thousand of his very fine local views direct from Germany. The printing and the coloring of the firm he gets them from are conceded to be the finest in the world. The colored panorama views just received are very pretty and do much to advertise this famous place. Besides this lot there is another consignment of ten thousand mostly new views now in New York Custom House waiting to get through the Customs. These fine art views of this pretty town are doing more to advertise it than anything else and are a good thing for the town.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Diöica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa: atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa (suppressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

WILL NOT TOLERATE NOISY DIVES.

Will Revoke Licenses of Three Ridgeway Saloons.

The following timely and interesting article is taken from this week's Ridgway Advocate:

After the jury had retired Thursday night in the case of the Commonwealth against Antonia Muscatello, who was charged with stabbing Frank Degnar during a brawl which occurred in front of the Rose Drug store on Main street on Saturday night last August, Judge Hall made the following remarks from the bench.

Not long ago a man had his throat cut in a drunken brawl in the saloon of G. W. Shelander in the block opposite this Court House. An indictment was presented to the Grand Jury at a former term against the man who did the cutting and was ignored. I am satisfied that this action on the part of the Grand Jury was not because of lack of evidence to sustain the indictment, but because the trial of the case would have disclosed that a crowd of young boys had become drunk in that saloon.

In the case which has just been submitted to the jury, it has been proved beyond question that a number of boys, so youthful in appearance that no man could have mistaken their minority, were served with drinks in "The Salberg" on the evening of this affray and although there is every reason to believe that they were already intoxicated when they went there they had no difficulty in buying drinks, either on account of their age or their condition.

There are three saloons in that block. It is in the shopping district in the principal part of the town and is necessarily the constant resort of ladies and children, yet it is a daily and more especially a nightly occurrence to see crowds of intoxicated men congregated on the side walk in front of one or more of these saloons engaged in profane and obscene discourse which the passersby cannot help hearing. This I have witnessed myself hundreds of times, and it is a source of constant and just complaint on the part of the ladies of this town. No effort apparently is made by the police to abate this nuisance so long as hostilities do not occur, although it seems to me they could prevent it in a large measure if they were so disposed. There is a good hotel at each end of that block, each of which is a source of credit to our town and entitled to our support. There are others close by in numbers quite sufficient, I think, to supply all the reasonable demands of the public for liquor. Under these circumstances we are of the opinion that the three drinking places opposite the court house are entirely unnecessary and that their maintenance in that locality is a blot on our otherwise orderly town which should no longer be permitted.

As my collegues on the Bench are in entire accord with me in this opinion, I mention it at this time, and in this public manner in order that the several parties holding those licenses may have an opportunity to arrange their business affairs accordingly.

For some time past a number of young men in Bellefonte, have been getting booze to drink. Fellows that are not over 16 and 17 years of age. They were DRUNK last Saturday night and Sunday and one went home in this condition and accidentally told his mother who bought him the bottle of liquor. This kind of work has been going on for months and this mother who has the evidence is going to prosecute. This is openly violating the laws as Judge Orvis laid them down to the hotel-keepers. It don't matter to us whether this hits YOU or not, if you are selling these boys liquor or if you are selling liquor over your bars in half pint, pint and quart bottles you are violating the liquor laws. These boys certainly cannot buy this stuff at your bar, so it must be carried out to them. You are being watched and if you are not careful Judge Orvis will do with you as Judge Hall did with the hotel keepers at Ridgeway.

Lamar Township Couple

On Thursday, November 21, Charles M. Fox and Miss Lena M. Andrews, both of Lamar township, were united in marriage at Hublersburg by Rev. H. I. Crow, pastor of the Reformed church, of which the bride is a member.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Andrews, of Cedar Springs, and is a bright young lady, possessing all the qualifications to make a valuable helpmate in life.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Fox and is a young farmer of intelligence and industry, being the standby of his mother (his father being dead) on a farm at Cedar Run.

The young couple start their married life with the best wishes of their many friends in the valley where they are so well known.

The Royal Gypsy Concert.

The Royal Gypsy Concert Company played to a very large and appreciative audience in the Petrikin Hall on Thursday evening. Every member of the troupe was a star. The young ladies were very pretty and beautiful singers, and Mr. Walter Eccles was all that could be desired in his singing and monologue work.

Coon Supper.

On Thursday evening Emanuel Green, entertained a number of his colored friends to a coon supper, among those present were. Charles Harrington, Robert Adams, James Summers, John Mills, Samuel Robinson, Henry Thomas and John Carter. The supper was gotten up in royal style and greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

A CURE FOR SHYNESS.

Two Kinds of This Disease, Physical and Mental.

There is probably no defect which causes so much anguish of spirit and discomfort as shyness and blushing. Nobody who has not personally suffered from it can conceive what it may cause.

Shyness may proceed from one of two causes—the one physical, the other mental. It is often an affair of health. The nerves are out of order, and the will becomes weak. People shrink from their fellow creatures and are filled with an unreasoning horror of meeting or speaking to them. The best cure for this kind of shyness is fresh air, exercise and cheerful society.

But there is another shyness and one harder to cure which comes from mental causes. The person so afflicted may be in robust health and yet so tormented by this inward enemy that she finds all intercourse with other people positively alarming. To meet strangers causes her a severe struggle. She would gladly turn down the first street corner to avoid bowing to even an acquaintance.

In either case the root of the matter to self consciousness, and it is only by losing that self consciousness that self possession can be gained. As long as one thinks about oneself at all one will be liable to shyness. The only cure is to thrust all thought of oneself into the background as much as possible, when one will gradually become natural, happy and at ease.

TO THE DISCOURAGED.

Live Up to Your Highest Mental Development and You'll Succeed.

Meet your problems with an effort of the mind. Meet your difficulties, your sorrows, your disappointments, with an effort of the will, which is a struggle of the brain.

Devote your energies to maintaining mental alertness. Remember that the brain inside your skull contains all your hope for the future, all your possibilities of usefulness as well as pleasure, since there alone sensation and real activity exists.

Use your brain to succeed and, above all, use your brain to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure.

Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Don't worry about the superior achievements of others. You have no cause for worry unless your life fails to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development.

HELPFUL HINTS.

If the covers of the kitchen range get red and will not blacken easily, try rubbing on lemon juice first, then blacken the usual way.

Wall paper which has been marked with grease may be cleansed by means of a hot iron and a blotter or several sheets of tissue paper.

A small brush, borax and hot water will give a beautiful polish to cut glass. When drained rub with a clean cloth or a soft dry brush.

Hang a child's blackboard in the kitchen, with a piece of chalk attached. It is more convenient than pencil and paper and not so easily lost.

It will be economy to finish your sheets with the same width hem at each end. By so doing they can be used either side up and gain much wear.

Whoever has tried to fasten a nail or screw in a plastered wall will welcome a solution to the puzzle. Burrow a hole slightly larger than the screw, fill with plaster of paris and insert the screw in the moist substance. It will be firm in a very short time.

Preserving Fine Linen.

A woman who appreciates the aesthetic properties of fine linen, both as a background for embroidery and as a plain drapery, told a friend not long ago how she cares for the beautiful pieces she possesses. "The life of a good piece of linen," she said, "should be considerably more than a generation. I intend Edith to have mine when I'm done with it and am doing all I can to keep the laundry maid from defrauding the child of her birthright. The first law for the preservation of linen is that it mustn't be starched. You can imagine how vigilant I have to be to insure the observance of this law, for you know the average laundress loves starch as the miser loves his gold. But so far my devotion to my linen has been strong enough to conquer even the fondness of the unenlightened mind for stiffness. I see that my treasures are carefully rinsed in clear water and pure soap and then get plenty of sunlight and fresh air. Of course to have the fine satin sheen you were admiring linen must be ironed damp. If it's ironed dry, it's always dull and tufty."

Not Too Crazy.

Jones, the tailor, is informed that one of his clients has suddenly gone insane.

"Oh, the poor fellow! But he'll pay my bill at least, won't he?"

"Oh, he isn't quite insane enough for that."—Paris Journal.

Answered.

"Where shall the weary find rest?" exclaimed Rev. Dr. Fourthly, with dramatic emphasis.

A short snore from the pew occupied by Deacon Hardesty was the only response.—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Donley Visits Her Son.

Mrs. Donley, of Renova, mother of William Donley, who is awaiting trial at the January term of court on the charge of murdering his niece, visited her son in the jail in Lock Haven Thursday afternoon. This is the first meeting between the two since Donley's arrest, the mother having been ill ever since, as a result of the tragedy and the arrest of her son. The interview lasted about an hour, when Mrs. Donley reluctanty withdrew.

Body of Unknown Man Found.

The body of an unknown man was found lying along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Tyrone at 10:30 o'clock last night. There was nothing on his clothing by which he could be identified and how he met death is yet a mystery. He may have been run down by a train or may have fallen from one. The body was given in charge of Undertaker Samuel Graham for burial, and the coroner, who was notified of the accident, made proper investigation.

Bellefonte Feels Nothing.

About all that Bellefonte and this community knows of a financial flurry in the country is what it reads in the city papers. The truth of the matter is that there hasn't been a minute since the agitation began that Bellefonte has felt it in the least.

Money has not been at a premium here and will not be. Checks of all kinds—that are good—are cashed as freely as ever by our merchants and banks and things move on in the even tenor of their ways without a ripple of disturbance.

The industrial situation has suffered slightly owing to a suspension in the output of lime, ballast and furnace stone by some of the quarries in the neighborhood. But that was to be expected with the approach of winter. The season puts a partial stop to the building business and naturally orders for building lime fall off. Just as they do every fall. The railroads stop their work of laying and ballasting new tracks consequently ballast order cease, just as they do every fall. These are normal conditions, not unusual and if the exciteable people will only to seriously consider the matter reasonable they will see nothing that they haven't seen late in the fall of every year.

Both the furnaces in this place are running full blast and the managers tell us that so far as their present knowledge is concerned they have no idea of shutting down. The match factory is so crowded with orders that it can't begin to keep up. The Yeager Manufacturing Co., is the same way and both the lumber mills are working full time.

Merchants report a slight falling off in business but they know this is due to the fact that the unusual good weather has kept the farmers at home husking corn. They are hopeful of a large increase later because everyone knows that with wheat ranging from 90c to $1, apples 60c. to 95c. corn up around 65c and hay selling from $17 to $18 per ton that the farmers are on easy street.

No, Centre county has every reason to be satisfied with the situation.

Stole Watch From Dying Man.

One of the meanest thieves the Lycoming county court has ever had to deal with was locked up at the city hall, Williamsport, Tuesday night and made a confession of his guilt, says the Sun. He is Ernest Grimes, a young man 20 years of age, who has been employed at the steel works at Newberry. The crime to which he has confessed is the theft of a gold watch and fob from the body of Henry Wicks, the superintendent of the Lycoming creek dike works, who shot himself in the head Tuesday afternoon inflicting probably fatal injuries. The theft was committed while the wounded man was lying on the bed covered with blood from the self inficited wound.

He Sure Was a Man!

When William Allen rose up in the early seventies and surprised the country by being elected governor of Ohio on the Democratic ticket one of the obstacles he triumphed over was the charge of being an old man. He addressed a great meeting at Mozart hall in Cincinnati the night following the day in which this ill advised charge had been brought against him by a responsible Republican leader. Strong, vigorous and well preserved as he was and retaining unbroken that quality of voice which had designated him as "Foghorn Allen" when he was in the senate, he was still politician enough to use it for all it was worth to him. After stating the charge in all its heinousness he straightened himself to his full height of more than six feet and, beginning in a loud voice, asked, "Am I a man?" The next question was in a voice pitched a scale higher and asked, "Do I look like a man?" But the third, in which he put out all of his tremendous vocal power, thundered to shake the roof in roaring, "Do I talk like a man?" The audience was thrilled. Such high physical power in a man of that age appealed to it irresistibly.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Fascination of Burglary.

"My champion burglar," said Mr. Holmes, the police court missionary, "is a bookbinder by trade, who has been in jail on and off for half a century."

Mr. Holmes' ramifications with this chronic breaker of the law constitute an instructive scene from his work. He behaved to the erring bookbinder quite as a brother; the man had the entree of the house and enjoyed the friendship of the family. How was he in the habit of repaying this hospitality? By going out to burgle. Twice Mr. Holmes set him up, but in vain. The only charm that life has for this extraordinary being is the opportunities it vouchsafes for committing burglary.

"Why on earth don't you leave off burglary?" Mr. Holmes asked him once. "Mr. Holmes," was his reply, "there's no fascination in the world to equal it. The silence of the night, the element of danger, the need of keeping every sense on the alert—it's grand."—Cassell's Journal.

Dealing In "Cats and Dogs."

No antiquarian pursues a more profitable or fascinating calling than the dealer in "cats and dogs," as the antiquities of Wall street are dubbed. "Cats and dogs" are the remnants of old stock, bond and note issues of railroad, industrial or mining companies on which payment of interest, dividends or principal has been in default for years. Some of these securities are worthless and obsolete, some of doubtful value, while a few are worth their weight in gold. Only the expert in obsolete securities can detect their worth. Many of these securities can be picked up at the official auction room of Wall street. Many brokers closely scrutinize the securities that are offered at this auction room, and only a few months ago 100,000 shares of stock in a certain mining company were sold for a song, from which the broker hopes to realize a big sum.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Phrases or Handcuffs.

It is customary to remark that modern problems cannot easily be attacked because they are so complex. In many cases, I believe, it is really because they are so simple. Nobody would believe in such simplicity of scoundrelism even if it were pointed out. People would say that the truth was a charge of mere melodramatic villainy, forgetting that nearly all villains really are melodramatic. Thus, for instance, we say that some good measures are frustrated or some bad officials kept in power by the press and confusion of public business, whereas very often the reason is simply healthy human bribery. We waste our fine intellects in finding exquisite phraseology to fit a man when in a well ordered society we ought to be finding handcuffs to fit him.—G. K. Chesterton in Illustrated London News.

May Turn Black.

Professor McMillan Brown, ethnologist, holds that the future Australian people will in all probability be black. The Polynesians, he said in a lecture at Sydney, came originally not from America, as has been supposed, but from Asia. They were whites and changed color, just as the future Australian may do as the centuries go on, at least in the tropical regions of the north. The violet rays of the sun will turn him black in course of time.

Sorry He Spoke.

"Really, Miss Primm, you ought to get married," remarked Wedderly. "You'll soon be in the spinster class if you don't hurry up and catch on."

"Oh, don't worry about me, Mr. Wedderly," replied Miss Primm. "If I were as easy to please as your wife I would have been married long ago."—London Telegraph.

Some Other Fellow's.

"With $100,000," said the man of expansive ideas, "I could make a fortune in Wall street."

"Yes," replied the piker, "but whose fortune would you make?"—Washington Star.

When the eyes are tired a handkerchief folded in four, soaked in cold water and laid on them will be found very efficacious, the compress being changed once or twice until relief is felt.

The Triumph of Titus.

The total number of those who perished in the siege and capture of Jerusalem is estimated by Josephus at 1,100,000 persons; 97,000 were taken captive by the Romans. Of these 700 of the finest and strongest were selected to grace the triumphal procession of Titus. The old and the weak, who could not be used, the Romans had butchered in cold blood. Those over seventeen years of age were part of them sent into the Egyptian mines, part of them forced to appear in battle with wild beasts and be torn to pieces by them or to fight as gladiators with one another to delight the eyes of the heathen populace. In Caesarea Philippi alone, at the celebration of the birthday of Domitian, more than 2,500 Jews shed their blood in the arena. The males under seventeen years of age and the women were sold directly into slavery. Titus, with all his prisoners and all his booty, marched to Rome, where he had a brilliant triumph in the year 71 A. D. The sacred vessels of the temple were carried before the "imperator," and Simon and John, for the first time shoulder to shoulder, were obliged to march before the chariot of the victor with the 700 chosen captives. Simon, being the real leader, was first scourged and then throttled at the strake, in accordance with Roman custom. John finished his career in prison.

Toothblacks.

"As we have bootblacks so they've got toothblacks in the Sunda islands," said a traveling man.

"What is a toothblack?"

"Don't you know? A toothblack is an old woman with a pot of black paint, a gold leaf book and a set of vegetable brushes. From hut to hut she passes, and for a small fee—a yam, a bunch of bananas, three cocoanuts—she paints the Sunda islander's teeth a glistening black—all but the two front teeth. These she gilds. And the Sunda islander thereafter goes about with a self conscious smile revealing a truly knock-me-down dental display, a black and gold symphony. It is a common trick among the semicivilized to color the teeth. In Macassar dark brown is the popular hue, and in Japan among the unenlightened classes the teeth of wives are always painted black. In such countries the toothblack is an institution. She goes from house to house as full of gossip as a barber."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Profession.

In the midst of our tea drinking in the little Parisian restaurant, says Miss Betham-Edwards in an account of "Home Life In France," a gentlemanly individual wearing a tall hat and frock coat entered and, after a short colloquy with the young master, passed out.

"You would never guess that gentleman's errand," Marcel said, smiling, as he reseated himself at the tea table.

"He looked to me like a rather distinguished customer," I replied. "Some government functionary on half pay or an owner of bonds."

Marcel smiled again.

"That well dressed gentleman, then, supplies us with toothpicks, which his wife makes at home. He calls once a month and takes our orders. I dare say he and his wife between them make from $6 to $8 a week and contrive to keep up appearances on that sum." It is an instance of what one calls 'gilded poverty.'"

How a Flea Jumps.

It is said that a flea leaps 200 times its height, and, while it usually does land on its feet, it often falls, especially when it falls on a perfectly smooth surface where the claws can get only a slight hold. A flea has six legs, whose great length and bulk make them so heavy that they must be a great help in keeping their owner right side up when it makes one of these gigantic jumps, and when it lands upside down or in some other way its ability to kick is so great that not more than one wriggle is needed to set things right. A flea's wings are mere scales and of no use; but, small and worthless as they are, they tell the entomologist something about the proper classification of the insect. To the flea itself they have no value.

An Amusing Slip.

A well known temperance lecturer who is an ardent advocate of prohibiting the public sale of liquors was becoming dramatic over the ideal conditions prevailing in a certain prohibition town.

"I am sure all who are present will agree with me," he concluded, sinking his voice to an impressive whisper, "when I tell you that during a stay of over two months I saw but one drunken man—a most refreshing sight!"—Buffalo Times.

Refined It.

A little girl was told by her mother that under no circumstances must she use the word "nigger," as it was offensive to the colored people. The next day at school she was requested to read aloud about a niggardly man, and she astonished the teacher by reading in this wise: "Once upon a time there was a very negrogardly man," etc.

Dodging His Friends.

The following advertisement recently appeared in one of the English colonial newspapers:

"James Saveall begs to notify that he has started business on his own account as an up to date restaurant and hopes that his many friends will jolly well stop away and give him a chance."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

You can't be well if you have a weak, unhealthy, tired out stomach. Neither can you feel good if by some little irregularity in eating you have caused the stomach to get out of order. These little stomach troubles are signs of indigestion which may and very often do end in turn into a very bad case of dyspepsia. Don't allow this to go on a single day without doing something to overcome it. Take some good reliable and safe digestant like KODOL For Dyspepsia. KODOL is the best remedy known to day for heart burn, bleching and all troubles arising from a disordered digestion. It is pleasant to take and affords relief promptly. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A Magnolia Elysium.

When good Charlestonians die, their bodies, it is said, go to Magnolia cemetery and their souls to the Magnolia gardens. Indeed, it were quite excusable in a wandering spirit if, chancing on these gardens when the azaleas were in their radiant perfection, he should mistake the place for Elysium, especially if looking for such a gardenlike Elysium as Herrick's. Although widely known and visited yearly by hundreds, Magnolia is not a public garden, but a noble old estate on the Ashley river, belonging now, as it has belonged for 200 years, to the Drayton family of South Carolina. Very much as the folk of Tokyo go out to worship the beauty of the cherry blossoms, so in March and April Charleston people and any strangers fortunate enough to be within their gates make a pilgrimage to Magnolia. During the season the little steamer plies between Charleston and Magnolia, making the trip twice daily.—Francis Duncan in Century.

Mr. Jogtrot—I don't want this horse. He hasn't any sense at all. Every time he sees an automobile he wants to climb a tree. Dealer—Well, that's good horse sense, it seems to me.—Chicago News.

A Clay Pipe Trick.

The ordinary clay pipe has under the bowl a projection or heel which it would seem impossible to break from the opposite side of an ordinary table without injuring the bowl or breaking the stem. Yet it can be done with ease after two or three attempts. Break off a piece of the stem—about a couple of inches will do—and place it on the table so that it projects a little over the edge. Ask a friend to hold the pipe obliquely, heel upward and the bowl higher than the end of the stem. He can do this by inserting his little finger in the bowl. Now get your piece in proper line with the stem of the pipe and strike it forcibly and well with the palm of your hand. The piece will fly across the table along the stem and break the heel clean off.

This seems amazing at first sight, but any one with a "straight eye" can do it with very little practice.

Wrecked by a Whale.

While cruising in the south seas the whaler Essex was furiously attacked by a cow sperm whale supposed to have been the mother of a calf which had just been harpooned. The whale had not been wounded herself, and her attack was very determined. At her first rush she passed under the Essex and carried away a great length of her false keel; then, coming to the surface a considerable distance away, she appeared to take bearings and deliberately charged the vessel again, ramming her with such violence that she stove in the bows, while the ship rolled so heavily that the captain thought she must be dismasted. The case is memorable because the crew had to abandon the vessel, and one boat was never heard of again.—Baily's Magazine.

High Living.

An eminent man who is a strict abstainer from both wine and animal food is obliged in consequence of this peculiarity to refrain from dining out. He entertains, however, an occasional kindred spirit. One such was recently at his table.

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist while sketching in North Carolina was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be.

"Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, nuthin', sah," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I's sittin' on an ant hill, sah."—Harper's Weekly.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.

MESSRS. E. C. DEWITT & CO., Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—

In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.

Yours very truly,

C. N. CORNELL.

MRS. H.A.S. MARSH

MRS. S.M. MORRIS

PRINCE JONAH KALANIANAOLE

Mrs. Ellen Nagle. 414 4th St., Green Bay, Wis., writes:

"I have often heard Peruna praised and it is more widely known here than other medicines, but I never knew what a splendid medicine it really was until a few weeks ago when I caught a bad cold which settled all over me.

"The doctor wanted to prescribe, but I told him I was going to try Peruna and sent for a bottle and tried it. I felt much better the next morning and within five days I had not a trace of any lameness or cough."

Prince Jonah Kalanianaole, Dewey Hotel, Washington, D. C., Delegate to Congress from Hawaii, writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend your Peruna as a very effective remedy for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Hon. C. C. Brooks, Mayor of Sunbury, Ohio, also Attorney for Farmers' Bank and Sunbury Building and Loan Co., writes:

"I have the utmost confidence in the virtue of Peruna. It is a great medicine. I have used it and I have known many of my friends who have obtained beneficial results from its use. I cannot praise Peruna too highly."

Cystitis Entirely Relieved.

Miss Mattie McArthur, care of Hospital, Medical Lake, Wash., writes:

"I have not written to you for some time, but, Oh, I have given you many words of praise. I am so well. I had cystitis very badly and could not walk any distance without suffering intense pain, but I do not have a touch of my old suffering now. I can never praise Peruna enough. I am telling every one how much good Peruna has done for me."

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, 29 Myrtle street, Beverly, Mass., writes:

"I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said of Peruna."

Suffered With LaGrippe.

Mrs. H. A. S. Marsh, 2128 Reservoir St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Association, writes:

"I suffered with la grippe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna.

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial.

"I will never be without it again."

Used Pe-ru-na For Bronchitis.

Mr. Frank Battle, Jr., First street, near Charlotte Ave., West Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I desire to say for the benefit of others that your Peruna has unquestionably cured me of chronic bronchitis. It is the grandest discovery of the age for throat and lungs."

Peruna is not simply a palliative to relieve some of of the distressing symptoms. It brings permanent relief.

Malarial Fever For Several Months.

Mrs. Sue M. Morris, 2214 Patterson St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"Last fall a severe attack of malarial fever laid me up for some months. My condition was serious for a time and the doctor who was attending me did not seem able to cope with the trouble.

"A neighbor advised me to let the doctor's prescription alone and try Peruna, extolling its virtues to the skies, and I am now ready to do the same, for in three days I was much better and in ten days I was able to be up and in two weeks every trace of malaria had left my system.

"I now use Peruna off and on when in need of a tonic and it braces me up wonderfully."

"The Doctors Gave Me Up."

Mr. Lewis Kitchen, Hulington, Ohio, writes:

"I cannot thank you enough for the good your Peruna has done me. About six months ago I could not leave my bed, and the doctors gave me up saying that I had consumption and could not live. Then a friend recommended Peruna to me, and I commenced using it.

"When I started to use your Peruna I weighed 117 pounds, and now I weigh 172 pounds. I had been sick for ten years, and was so sick I could not turn over in bed when I began the use of Peruna. I think it is the greatest medicine of its time.

"I am now feeling well and hearty and would not be without Peruna."

Weak and Nervous.

Mr. Charles Brown, Rogersville, Tenn., writes:

"I feel it my duty to write you a few words in praise of your Peruna. I have tried many different remedies, but have found that Peruna is the greatest tonic on earth, and a perfect system builder.

"A friend advised me to take Peruna for indigestion, and it cured me in a short time. I was very weak and nervous, could sleep but little at night, but Peruna cured that tired, all-gone feeling, and made me feel like a new man, so I heartily recommend it to all who are weak and run down. Peruna will give new life and energy. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and will not forget to recommend it on every hand. I will answer any letter from those desiring to know what Peruna has done for me."

Systemic Catarrh.

Miss Marie Lesser, 928 W. 36th street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it. I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief and some did not even do that. I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend and was more than pleased and surprised at the results. I am now perfectly well and strong."

True Cause of Disease.

IN these days almost every ailment is supposed to be caused by disease germs.

The medical profession as well as the people, seem to have gone mad over the germ theory of disease.

The universal fear and dread of disease germs is becoming a very serious matter to the welfare and happiness of the people.

Dr. Hartman has consistently contended through all the rise and spread of the germ theory, that most diseases are caused by climatic influences.

For instance, catching cold is responsible for more than one-half of the ills to which human beings are subject.

Danger of Neglected Colds.

A person catches cold easily, thinks nothing about it, neglects it, when it finally becomes settled in some organ of the body, and chronic disease is the result.

A few doses of Peruna in the beginning of the cold would have saved months of suffering, as well as great expense for treatment.

Peruna is a reliable relief for cold. Almost everybody knows this.

Instead of trying to dislodge or kill some imaginary germ, if Peruna was used at the proper time its tonic properities and anti-catarrhal qualities would soon convince the patient that he has found the right remedy.

A multitude of letters are received testifying to this fact.

Keep Peruna in the house. Use it whenever cold or climatic affections assail, and sickness in the household will become greatly lessened, if not entirely prevented.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

Mr. Christian Hofmann, R. F. D. 1, Slatington, Pa., writes:

"For many years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I was coughing day and night. After having tried three doctors and many remedies, one of your almanacs came to my hand, and I bought some Peruna. So far I have taken six bottles, and I have not suffered with catarrh this summer. I am cured and Peruna did it. I give Peruna to my children when they feel bad and you should see how healthy they are."

Nose, Throat and Stomach.

Mr. Delbert B. Craft, Lowell, Ind., writes:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic catarrh of the nose, throat and stomach. I would continually take cold and my stomach was in bad condition. I truly suffered untold misery. I took various medicines and tried the treatment of several physicians, but I felt no better. A friend advised me to take Peruna. I wrote to Dr. Hartman, who prescribed treatment. As soon as I commenced to take Peruna I was surprised at the relief it gave me. I kept on taking it until I had taken thirteen bottles and was cured."

EARLE C. TUTEN,

Teachers Institute.

should increase the student's respect both for himself and for authority, a teacher should punish with regard to perfect justice. Let him do this, and not only his school but his community will begin to look to him for leadership.

Dr. Miller concluded the day with a brief biography and appreciation of "Edgar Allen Poe."

There is a facination about Poe's life, not only for us Americans, but evidently for most of the nationalities of Europe also. Poe touches the univereal heart.

E. A. Poe was born of an actor family "Almost on the stage." He was adopted at an early age by the Allans, a well to do merchant family of Richmond, Va., sent to school, and from there to the University of Virginia. From there he was removed by his guardian for gambling. He entered the army, and there started the course at West Point. Finding the discipline too severe, he had himself expelled, and went to writing as a profession. His college and West Point, friends, however, stuck to him all through his brief but eventful life. He had the artist's restless nature, and an unfortunate taste for drink.

Motherless, he was one day deeply affected by the greeting the mother of one of his friends gave him,—a greeting consisting of a hug and kiss. This lady he celebrated many times as Helen, as Eleanor, as Lenore. Arriving at mature age, he filled several editorships, none ever for a long time. He married his cousin, Virginia Clemm, his "child wife" of 13 years. She is his Annabel Lee. She died from the privations she and Poe were forced to undergo in their poverty stricken cottage at Fordham.

The last great event of Poe's life was his lecture, in Richmond, on "The Poetic Principle." From it he made sufficient money to establish, as he hoped, a magazine. On his was north for this purpose he stopped in Baltimore, was drugged, robbed, and died shortly in a miserable condition. His death is half a mistery

DR. SCHAEFFER'S LECTURE.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public instruction, lectured in the Court House on "Work and Play in Education." The lecture was well attended and received enthusiastically by the audience.

Dr. Schaeffer spoke with great wisdom and good sense on the new heresy of "play" in school-work, said the speaker. It is work and not play that makes character.

Not the least interesting part of the lecture were the genial and characteristic anecdotes and illustrations of the speaker which carried the audience by storm.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Institute opened Thursday morning with prayer by the Rev. J. Allison Platte, of the Presbyterian church, Bellefonte.

Dr. Schaeffer gave the first talk. "Education" said the speaker, "is the common religion of the American people." What ever other creed we hold, we all believe in education.

The new "Snyder Minimum Salary Law" divides the teachers of the State into two classes, the 1st class to receive not less than $50 per month, the 2nd not less than $40. Why was the Legislature so anxious to pass this law? To prevent the expenditure of appropriations on extravagant school supplies.

An educational commission was organized by the last Legislature, to investigate school work, and abolish the obsolete. The commission invites suggestions from all teachers and friends of education.

Dr. Gordinier continued Thursday's lecture on "Words." He illustrated in the beginning, Grimm's Law of Permutation of Consonants, by giving the forms of "father" in various languages pitri—Sanskrit.

pater—Greek.
padre—Spanish.
pere—French.
fader—Icelandic.
vater—German.
father—English.

In this word the initial consonant, though varied, is alway a labial, that is words by the lips.

The double source of English—Latin and Saxon—gives our language a flexibility and richness of synonyms. Generally the specific term is Saxon, the class name Latin.

A person may have a theoretical knowledge of a word and not know how to use it; or on the other hand a practical knowledge, and be unable to define.

A growing language demands the continual introduction of new words and technical terms. A study of literature demands the study of obsolete and obsolescent words.

The idioms of a language, and its provincialisms are often the most fascinating study. Often a provincialism goes back to early forms of the language.

In the following intermission Miss Heinle entertained the audience with a recitation of Riley's poem "An Old Sweet heart of Mine," and a recitation to music "Ye're Jes a Lil' Nigger, but Ye're Mine, all Mine."

Mr. Miller spoke on the value of pictures in Education, How can we better teach patriotism, said the speaker, than by hanging in our school room the good old picture "The Spirit of '76." A good plan for the schools is to change pictures from room to room and thus draw the pupils attention to them.

A teacher by encouraging drawing among the pupils, many often get very good pictures from the class itself. Many of our most successful artists have been discovered in the schoolroom, or even the farm. John Q. A. Ward, the sculptor comes from an Ohio farm. By means of the pictures of an artist we can inculcate the valuable lesson of the artist's life.

Dr. Willis spoke on "Moral Training." He outlined the psychology of will, acts and desires, distinguishing rational and animal motives as factors in our moral decisions. The speaker explained how he kept a man from from a debauch, by speaking to him just as he was about to enter a saloon, introducing a new motive that temporarily altered his decision.

The aesthetic instinct manifests itself in our love of dress, music, poetry, etc. It explains our love of beauty, the essence of which is harmony in its appeal to the soul.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Dr. Willis gave the first talk of the afternoon, on "Moral Training." It seems at first a paradox, said the speaker, that a man thoroughly conscious of the moral law or its effects will deliberately, and in defiance of that knowlege, do wrong. Yet such is the case.

What do we understand, first of all, by this Moral or Ethical Law? We mean the principals of the Equal Balance,—the Scales of Justice. We fulfill the moral law when we pay a debt in foll, but not if we skimp even a penny; when we give foll value for value received. Like wise we fulfill it when we let others enjoy the advantage we have, and when we put no one to a disadvantage. The exact fulfilment of this law is one of of the finer points of conduct. Much of the value of legal training is the help it gives us toward arriving at a correct sense of right and wrong. So also the algebraic equation may help us to appreciate the meaning of the "equal balances."

It ought to make any normal honest man happy to fulfill a moral obligation. It ought to make one feel good to pay up one's debts, or to teach a class a good honest lesson.

In spite of this pleasure resulting from moral action, under the strain and stress of life we very often go beyond the moral law to attain certain much desired ends. When we think of immorality we are accustoned to think of high crimes. Better think of the little deceptions, "shrewdnesses," and hypocricies of every day life. Better be good than "smart" or "clever." Morality not only tones up the mind and strengthens the will; it invigorates the physical life also. The finer the moral, the finer the physical life.

A few psychological facts should help us in attaining more perfect morality.

Knowlegde preceeds feeling, and is necessary for the existence of feeling. We would not be afraid of fire had we not real, or supposed, knowledge of what the effect of fire would be. To strengthen the moral nature learn the results of immortality.

Feelings solict the will. Disgust at drunkeness may be the strongest motive to make us quit drink. The finest feelings cause the best will-acts.

Dr. Gordinier spoke on "Mythology." The primitive man, said the speaker, as civilization dawns upon him, begins to ask himself five questions:

1 Whence am I?
2 Whither am I going?
3 Who am I?
4 Who do I exist?
5 What is the cause of the phenomena I see in nature and in myself?

This latter question the man of the ancient world answered by the system of gods and goddesses we call "Mythology."

Dr. Miller lectured on "The Tragedy of Lear." The story of Lear, he said, is older than civilization and teaches an eternal truth. King Lear had three daughters, from whom he demanded in turn the measure of their love. The two eldest, Goneril and Regan, lied and flattered him; the youngest, Cordelia, being true hearted, refused him extravagant speech, incurred his anger, and was banished. Between Goneril and Regan King Lear divide his kingdon. These two sisters, monsters of cruelty and ingratitude, reduced their old father to penury and drives him from their doors, blinded and naked to the storm. Cordelia, married to the King of France, hastens to his rescue, only to be captured and put to death. The old King now insane and repenting, carries the dead body of his daughter in his arms and dies broken-hearted.

This story the lecturer illustrated by reading selected passages. He also commented on the character of the "wise-fool," the "gorgon sisters" Goneril and Regan, and the infatuated but kingly Lear himself,

FRIDAY MORNING.

Institute opened this morning with prayer by the Rev. J. B. Stein of the M. E. Church, Bellefonte.

The Committee on Resolutions reported with the usual thanks.

As a result of Thursday's ballot, the election of Messrs Hosterman and Wagner, Vice Presidents, was announced; also the election of Miss Neff Secretary.

The Auditing Committee reported showing a total of $739.90 expenditures; balance on hand $22.69.

Dr. Willis gave the Institute its concluding talk, on "Foods." The ideal condition of eating is to take just enough to nourish the system, or no more. Large quantities of food will not greatly nourish the body, nor produce corpulence; it is a popular fallacy to believe so. Excessive drinking likewise leads to degeneration of the cells, filling the intercellular space with water, and producing a false and unhealthy corpulence.

There are 5 great elements entering the body as foods:

1. Albumen (Proteids), one of the most important and necessary foods.
2. Sugars and Starch
3 Fats
4. Water
5. Minerals (Sodium, Phosphides, Bromides.)

Any good or perfect food contains some of all of these elements. Milk is the only perfect food, chemically speaking. Meat contains little starch, potatoes little but startch; so we eat the two together and get a very nourishing combination.

The amount of food is an important item. In a day one should take about:

1 lb. of meat, eggs, or fish, for albumen.

2 oz of butter, for oils or fats.

½ lb. bread, of good quality, fresh and about the temperture of the body, the best bread is made from fine hard corn.

3 pints of water, in excess of the water foods

1½ pints of milk.

When to eat. It is a fallacy that one should eat no breakfast; the breakfast should be hearty, so should the midday meal. Supper should be light. Sleep with the stomach empty.

What to eat.

1. Milk is ¼ solid and contains the elements in proper proportion. It is a good nerve food, containing proper amounts of Bromides and Phosphides.

2. Eggs and bread, taken together make an excellent light meal and are also good nerve foods.

3. Meat and bread (or potatoes) and a little milk is an excellent combination.

4. Fish is rich in fats and phosphates, —a fine nerve food.

5. Good bread is an excellent food, although containg little mineral.

6. Potatoes should be combined with a albumnious food.

7. Beans, etc. alone are a poor food, but good in combination.

8. Cereals should not be followed by large quantities of bread and sugar. Alone they are healthy.

9. Fruits contain little nourishment alone, being mostly sugar and water. Their flavors are useful in aiding digestion.

10. Candies are worthless and very often dirty. They gorge the liver defeat its usefulness.

11. Red meats should be avoided by people troubled with Uric Acid.

12. Green vegetables have very little food value, but help the digestive juices, onions are rich in phosphates, stimulate the liver, and throw open the skin pores.

13. Nuts are valuable for their oil; also they stimulate the gastric and intestinal glands. Spices have little value. Salt is valuable for its sodium a nerve food.

Briefly, Celery, oysters, fresh and rich bread are fine nerve food. Institute closed with the Doxology and Benediction by the Rev. Haney of the Evangelical association.

Moshannon.

Thanksgiving time has again arrived. We hope no one will forget the true meaning of the occasion, and make a day of thanksgiving instead of a day of feasting and carousal. The importance of this day is so often forgotten by the average citizen. It is really a second national holiday.

So far, the reports of the hunters have not been so favorable, as very few deer have been captured or even seen, however a number of bear have been shot, and as these animals are quite valuable the hunters will not feel discouraged.

John Hazzard, one of our promising young men, arrived here on Saturday with a charming young bride, having been married at Unionville, on Friday by the Rev. Kiffer. They will reside in Tyrone in the future.

Several inches of snow fell here during the past week, which reminds us that winter in upon us. This is a boon to the hunters as it makes their chances so much better, and their luck so far, is not to boast of.

The schools, have reconvened after a short vacation. The teachegs report one of the best institutes they have ever had the pleasure of attending. Surely the teachers institutes are a benefit.

A Week of Prayer.

Bishop Darlington has mailed to the rector of each church in the diocese of Harrisburg of the Protestant Episcopal church, a pastorial setting apart the week beginning with Sunday, the Sunday next before Advent, as a week of prayer; this designation is in accord with a resolution adopted by both houses at the recent Richmond convention at the request of the International Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Three suggestions are made in the letter; they are that in all churches appropriate services be held during the week of prayer, and particularly at such hours as will secure the largest attendance of men and boys; that a special sermon be preached urging the call of the ministry on young men, and the need of laborers in the vineyard; that a corporate communication of all the men of the parish be held on the first Sunday in Advent, December 1, which day has been set apart for the men's national communion.

The letter ends by calling attention to the proclamation by the President and Governor that next Thursday be observed as Thanksgiving day and suggests further appropriate services then, in addition to the regular week of prayer services.

MERCHANTS ARE PLEASED.

Because Christmas Shoppers Show Disposition to Purchase Early.

"Women are growing more sensible each year," said a prominent merchant "and if this remarkable tendency increases with time men will be driven to despair to find cause for complaint—and to distraction because they are surpassed.

"The cause of my remark is this: Women are loosing that terrible habit of procrastinating. They are learning that it is better to have done last week what they could have put off until next. The result is that a good portion of the sex feminine has done its Christmas shopping already. We shopkeepers are very grateful for this early buying, and we hope that the few dilatory ones will make up their minds and finish their purchasing before Christmas week.

"We have noticed lately that every year the holiday shopping is begun earlier by more people, and the result is that everyone is better pleased—the shopper because she can make more satisfactory purchases and with greater comfort, and the shopkeepers because such methods relieve the strain and the rush of the holidays."

From the point of view of the saleslady early shopping is little short of a blessing. Although the force of workers at most of the stores is increased for the holiday rush, yet the increase in the purchases made makes the holiday season a most wearisome time for her. Her hours are lengthened, she is compelled to work harder, and she has to contend with the querulous hurrying shopper, who upon many occasions are a trial and mortification to the spirit.

Another advantage of early shopping is that there is less likelihood of purchases being missent. It is aggravating to discover about five minutes before a certain parcel is to be sent to an out-of-town friend that it is wondering aimlessly around from house to house and then back to the store unclaimed. To lessen the difficulty of misdelivering goods most of the stores increase the delivery force during the last few weeks before Christmas, but even then the strain would be lessened if the shopping were done earlier.

Skeleton Found Near Curwensville.

Great excitement was caused in Curwensville Wednesday when Charles Anderson, a youth of that place, reported that while out hunting he had found the skeleton of a man at a place known as Rocky Point, at the head waters of Montgomery Run.

A description of the skeleton stated that the head was entirely gone except one cheek bone and one tooth. The man's shoes were in good condition, but his hat was found to be riddled with shot. His clothing had all rotted away and decayed.

A small sum of money was found beside the skeleton and on one of the bones of his hand was found a gold ring with a red set.

According to the reports there are no marks of identification found that would furnish any clue as to the name of the unfortunate man. There was no firearms around to indicate that he had been hunting and accidentally shot himself.

It is the belief at Curwensville that the unfortunate man had been in the woods and was accidentally shot by hunters who were unaware of what they had done.

It is evident from the condition of the remains that the man had been dead for several months. The body was removed to Clearfield, where an investigation will be made concerning his death.

Later information states that a clue has been obtained as to the man's identity. On June 10th last a man by the name of Benjamin DeBeque was engaged, together with several other men to build a fence around Judge Gordon's hunting preserve near Horn's shanty. Shortly after being engaged DeBeque was given $15 dollars to pay several of the other men but both he and the money disappeared and have not been heard of since. On the afternoon of the same day DeBeque received the money his son appeared at the camp and inquired for him saying that his mother was ill and they wanted him at home. He awaited for some time but his father did not come and shortly afterward DeBeque's wife accompanied by the son returned and made a search for him, but he could not be located.

The clothes worn by the dead man correspond exactly with those said to be worn by DeBeque when he disappeared and although his family are not positive they feel sure the dead man was Benjamin DeBeque.

A Disgraceful Scene.

About 11 o'clock Tuesday night a disgraceful fight occured at the end of the platform at the Pennsylvania depot. Two fellows attacked a lad from Brown Row and as they double teamed him, they came near putting his light out. Some of the residents living near the station heard the cries of the one man and thought a murder was being committed, and got up out of their good warm beds and went to the scene of the conflict. The fellows after leaving their man lying in the mud with a half dozen very bad wounds on his body started for home.

Bickford Fire Brick Co. Secures Curwensville Plant.

Some weeks ago we prematurely announced in these columns the sale of the Curwensville Fire brick plant, which announcement was based upon the rumor that the property which for about six months has been in the hands of a trustee in Bankruptcy, has been disposed of at private sale.

The actual sale only occurred last Saturday at the Court House at Clearfield, Pa. at which time it was offered at public sale and was knocked off the Bickford Fire Brick Co. at a cash bid of $170,000. In the acquisition of this property the Bickford Fire Brick Co. has secured what is conceded to be the most valuable fire clay proposition in Penna. In this transfer there will pass to the purchasers not only a fire brick manufacturing plant of the most modern and substantial but one ready to make brick within the next thirty days at the rate of 50,000 per day. By this sale the new owners also acquire vast deposits of the highest grade of fire clay and coal aggregating in the neighborhood of two thousand acres, the coal alone being conservatively estimated to be worth $100,000. This purchase carries with it also a fully equipped narrow guage railway extending to within three miles of the valuable tract of clay land consisting of 1150 acres which was purchased in fee by the Bickford Brick Co. last April The personal property that passes by this sale consists of mines and mine equipment tramways, tracks, tipples cars, locomotives, machinery, tools etc. horses, mules, wagons, supplies on hand, about 250,000 building brick and 1,000,000 furnace brick. Owing to the present condition of the money market the above property was acquired at a fraction of its real value and the Bickford Fire Brick Company have made the most important and attractive deal that has been pulled off for some time in fire brick circles. Ever since the Curwensville Company went into bankruptcy (a condition that resulted from a series of misfortunes in the endorsement of negotiable paper) the Bickfords and our own townsman Mr. J. C. Meyer, the President of the Bickford Fire Brick Co. have been negotiating for the acquisition of this property, and they with their stockholders, a number of whom resides in this County are indeed to be congratulated upon this splendid consummation of their efforts. County Recorder John C. Rowe is also one of the Directors of this Company. The purchasers will immediately set to work making such repairs as the recent shut down made necessary and by the first of January the plant is expected to be running full in all its departments.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR N. G. P.

Will be Equipped with U. S. Army Blouses and Dress Cord.

Arrangements have been made by Adjutant General Stewart, in accordance with the action of the Legislature and by approval of the state military board, to purchase from the United States government a sufficient number of United States army regulation dress blouses to equip the entire National Guard of the state. These blouses are now being made under the direction of the quartermaster's department of the United States army. Adjutant General Stewart is endeavoring, if possible, to have these dress coats delivered in time for issue to the guard for the coming spring inspection. This, however, may not be accomplished, owing to the inability to furnish them in time. The present blue coat or blouse will be recalled. The issue will be made under the same system as the issue of blue caps some time ago It is also the intention of the Adjutant General to furnish to each command the breast cord for all arms of service. This will enable all organizations of the National Guard to parade in service, dress or full dress uniform. The necessary blank forms are now being prepared for commanders of the several organizations, with full instructions regarding the change, also giving a schedule of sizes, instructions for measurements and the making of requisitions.

Bought a Very Fast Horse.

Mr. M. B. Garman attended the great horse show at Madison Square Garden New York this week and while there he purchased a 2 year old stud colt by Sidney Dillon dam by Lou Milton which makes it a full brother to Lou Dillon 1:58½, the fastest trotter in the world. This is one of the best bred colts that stands in Pennsylvania today. Mr. Garman arrived home this morning from the city and feels very happy over the purchase of this magnificent horse. We don't know what was paid for the animal, but we imagine a great many hundred of the long green. The colt will reach Bellefonte some day this week.

When a horse picks up a nail in his foot what does the driver do? Does he whip the limping, lagging animal and force him along? Not unless he wants to ruin the horse. At the first sign of lameness he jumps down, examines the foot and carefully removes the cause of the lameness. What is called "weak stomach" is like the lameness of the horse, only to be cured by removing the cause of the trouble. If you stimulate the stomach with "whisky medicines" you keep it going but every day the condition is growing worse. A few doses sometimes of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical will put the disordered stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition in perfect condition. Ninety-eight times in every hundred "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure the worst ailments originating in diseases of the stomach. It always helps. It almost always cures. To cure constipation use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're sure.

An Undesirable Citizen.

The man who carries a deadly weapon about him constantly and who uses it at every little provocation is an undesirable citizen. It does not make any difference whether his weapon be a revolver or a stiletto. It is immaterial whether the criminal was born in this country or across the seas. It is against the law to carry concealed deadly weapons.

He who deliberately defies the law is an incipient criminal and the chances are that he will soon be an actual one. All he needs is the opportunity and the provocation. The news of the day reeks with bloody narratives that would never be written had the law been obeyed.

Public sentiment should frown upon the bloody-minded man who draws and uses a weapon upon the slightest opportunity. The law should get upon his track and the doors of the penitentiary open to receive him.

DANCING BALLS.

A Pretty Experiment That Any Bright Boy Can Perform.

Get a wide mouthed bottle closed by a hollow cork, in which is inserted the pipe of a small glass funnel. By means of sealing wax make air tight and water tight all the crevices that might leak both between funnel and cork and between cork and bottle.

Half fill the bottle with water and throw in the two powders that are used to make seltzer water, tartaric acid and bicarbonate of soda, which may be bought at a drug store ready for use. Effervescence will at once take place, throwing off carbonic acid gas, and this will escape through the funnel.

But if you have placed within the funnel two or three little balls of elder pith or even of cork the gas cannot escape except at intervals, for as one ball is lifted from the orifice another will drop down to close it. By painting these balls in different colors you may produce a pretty effect.

The effect may be made more beautiful by cutting tissue paper in the form of a butterfly's wings and gluing them to one of the balls. The balls will dance up and down in the funnel, and the imitation butterfly will flutter as if over a flower.

BALLOON OF NEWSPAPERS.

It Took a Great Number of Papers, but the Fun Was Worth It.

During our last summer's vacation in Colony, Kan., our boys made a balloon of old newspapers. It was thirty feet high and fifteen feet across and was composed of 256 papers and an amount of paste and patience.

They pasted the pages together end to end, with narrow strips of muslin across the place of joining, thus forming long strips, which were then pasted together side to side, again covering the joining with muslin strips.

We first conceived the idea of making a small balloon just after a balloon ascension in our town. We watched them as they made ready to send up the large balloon and patterned ours very much after it. Our first balloon was small, only fifteen feet high. We sent up two others after that, the last one of which was thirty feet high. We flew it successfully several times.

We regulated our supply of coal oil and gasoline with parts of a gasoline stove and regulated the air with draft and a gasoline lamp pump. We had it arranged with the guys (ropes) so that the jerk of one cord threw everything loose from the balloon. The balloon flew probably over half a mile before the gas cooled. This was the last one tried in the neighborhood, and to fly it as successfully others would have to have our pattern.—St. Nicholas.

Gooseberry.

Many young people have wondered how the gooseberry got its name, supposing, quite naturally, that the fruit must have some connection with a goose. Gooseberries are called in German johannis-beeren—that is, the "St. John's berries," because they ripen about the time of the feast of St. John. St. John is called in Holland St. Jan, and the fruit is there called jansbeeren. This word was centuries ago corrupted into gansbeeren, of which our English word gooseberries is a literal translation, gans, in German, signifying a goose.

A Queer Crane.

In Venezuela and British Guiana lives a kind of crane called the agami, which the natives tame and employ in many tasks for which dogs are trained in other parts of the world. The birds, it is said, will watch and care for flocks of sheep or of poultry as well as shepherd dogs would do.

Three Dreams.

"I had the very strangest dream,"
Said Jasper John, "last night.
I dreamed the moon and all the stars
Were shining just as bright,
And yet the sun was shining, too,
And I was racing Ted,
While everybody else we knew
Was sound asleep in bed."
"I dreamed," said little Theodore,
"About a monstrous horse,
With twenty legs and lots of tails
(He belonged to me, of course);
His eyes were green, the rest of him
Was yellow streaked with black,
And nobody in all the world
But me could mount his back."
Their father, mother and their aunt
Agreed that these two dreams
Were very queer, but Bobby said:
"The one I had it seems
To me's the queerest of them all.
I saw a boy that said
He hated baseball, and he wished
He'd been a girl instead."

One Thousand Men, $1,000.

If 1,000 men were to come in here and each one eat a dollar's worth, I would have just $1,000," said the manager of one of those restaurants where each person helps himself. "On the other hand, if I should feed 1,000 women and allow them to pick out their own checks I might possibly have $500, but I doubt it. Every woman is a natural born cheat. It seems to be a sixth sense in her makeup to try to get ahead of the person who provides her meals."

The woman to whom these horrifying revelations had been made walked away trying to evolve some plan for emancipating her sex from the web of dishonest propensities in which they had become enmeshed. Outside the restaurant she met a man friend.

"I've just been down there for luncheon," he said. "Glorious place; cheap too. If a fellow knows his business it is dead easy to get a fifty cent meal for a quarter. They never watch the men, but I tell you they keep a close eye on you women."

The woman with an ambition to reform her sex looked back into the restaurant.

"One thousand men, $1,000," she said, and smiled wickedly.—New York Times.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood.

Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpassed.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and thereby remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter rising after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid, or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and its attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editoral staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhea (surpressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Easy to take as candy.

Not His Place to Laugh.

Milly is a sweet young lady, usually very sedate and self possessed. But today she was suffering under the stress of suppressed emotion.

"Calm yourself, my dear," urged a sympathetic friend, "and tell me all about it."

"Well, you see," began Milly, wiping her eyes, "papa caught a wicked cold, and mother persuaded him to coddle himself to get rid of it. So he sat, dressed in pajamas, on his folding bed in front of a blazing fire in his bedroom. He had a steaming bowl of gruel on his knee, and his feet were in a pail of mustard and water.

"Presently we heard a terrific noise overhead, and we all rushed upstairs to see what had happened to poor papa. We found that the folding bed had collapsed in the middle, and there he was stuck in the angle, scalding gruel in his lap and pouring all over him, while ma was sitting in a pool of mustard and water on the floor, laughing herself into hysterics. And, oh, the things he said because she didn't go and pull him out! That's why I'm overcome, my dear!"—London Answers.

A Bundle of Blunders.

Don't say that "cleanliness is next to godliness," a statement which would be untrue if it were not unmeaning. If you must gauge the value of this excellent quality quote the original correctly and say that cleanliness is next to goodliness, meaning thereby that, where this is lacking, a clean and well kept person has an attraction and a comeliness only second to actual beauty.

Never talk of "the worst coming to the worst," an impossible occurrence, since it is already there. The worse may come to the worst, as, alas, it often does, but when the worst has come there is no more to be said.

Please do not speak of your "mutual friend." If A is a friend of B and C, A is not a mutual but a common friend.

But, above all, if you would be blameless never talk of "common sense," as though it were or could be an exceptional or rare possession of a favored few. Common sense is the sense common to all, which long may we all enjoy.

Shakespeare Versus Burns.

At the close of a lecture to the members of a certain literary society the following dialogue between a Scotchman and the lecturer was overheard:

"Ye think a fine lot o' Shakespeare, doctor?"

"I do, sir," was the emphatic reply.

"An' ye think he was mair clever than Robbie Burns?"

"Why, there's no comparison between them!"

"Maybe no, but ye tell us the nicht it was Shakespeare who wrote 'Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.' Now, Robbie would never have written sic nonsense as that."

"Nonsense, sir!" thundered the indignant doctor.

"Aye, just nonsense. Robbie would hae kent fine that a king, or a queen either, disna gang to bed wi the crown on his head. They hang it ower the back o' a chair." The doctor's face dropped, for he realized that his lecture had been given in vain.—Scottish Nights.

Gold Is Everywhere.

Gold can most profitably be extracted from certain mines where the ore is rich and not too difficult to work, but should these deposits ever peter out there is no fear that the world would suffer for lack of a gold supply, for there are many other sources which are as yet untouched, but for working which profitable methods would be devised if need were. Granite, for example, contains an appreciable quantity of gold, and if it were not under present conditions too expensive a matter to extract it we should find Scotland and Cornwall rivaling the Transvaal and the Klondike. The sea also contains gold in solution, and the man who invents a cheap method of getting it out will make himself richer than all the millionaires that ever lived. Gold is also constantly falling all over the surface of the world, blown to us in minute quantities along with cosmic dust, which comes from interstellar space.—Black and White.

Easily Stated.

A committee having in charge a local entertainment went to a noted editor to request him to take part in it.

"What do you want me to do, gentlemen?" he asked.

"We would like to have you give us a talk on spelling reform," they replied.

"Well," he rejoined, "I can give you my idea of spelling reform in one sentence. Just leave 'me' off the 'programme.'"

Unnecessarily Polite.

A lady tells of an experience in a Buffalo street car. The car was empty, with the exception of one man, and he was the reverse of the car. As she entered he rose, made her an unsteady but magnificent bow, and said, "Madam, please be kind enough to accept thish plashe." Rather than offend the man, there was nothing else for her to do, so she thanked him and sat down, and for seven blocks he hung from the strap, swaying in the breeze, with not a soul in the car but the two.

Maximilian and "La Paloma."

Wherever that haunting air, "La Paloma," is played the memory of the Emperor Maxmilian, shot by the Mexicans on June 19, 1867, should be preserved. Maxmilian's final request was that "La Paloma" should be played while he stood up to meet his doom. He died with the tune in his ears, and his wife went mad with the shock of his execution.

TO CLEAR THE TABLE.

A Little System Works Wonders and Accomplishes Much.

One of the chief indications of a well regulated household is the rapidity with which breakfast, dinner or tea things are cleared away and restored to their respective places, and how to excel in this respect is something every young housewife should know. Where there is a full domestic staff, with a constant supply of hot water, this is, of course, an easy task, but even under less favorable circumstances a little good management will greatly simplify the task of washing up.

Take care that the kettle or boiler is filled before the commencement of the meal; then at the conclusion there will be no delay caused by waiting for hot water. See that you have large, dry, clean towels to dry or polish the dishes with. Begin with the glasses, cups, saucers and other similar articles, reserving till the last those which have been used for greasy food.

If you have a plate rack over the sink so much the better. If not let your plates drain for a minute or two on a thickly folded towel after taking them from the water. This makes your towel last dry all the longer and lessens the labor of polishing. A small teaspoonful of soap powder or a few drops of cloudy ammonia added to the water greatly facilitates the task of washing up. Each article must be well rinsed afterward in a bowl of clean water.

A BISHOP'S ADVICE.

Parents Responsible For Happy Conditions In the Home.

Bishop Potter of New York has taken his able pen in hand and is writing a remarkably interesting series of "Talks to Women" in Harper's Bazar. In one of the numbers of the Bazar he has this to say, among other things, on the topic of "The Modern Home:"

"The modern home is just what the heads of it make it, and the question which most of all concerns the republic today is the question, What are the fathers and mothers in American homes teaching their children? It may indeed be said that the great differences in our American homes—differences of condition, differences of privilege, differences of opportunity—will make that question very hard to answer, hard perhaps, but not impossible, for the one thing that determines the influence of the home is its spirit, and the spirit is determined by quite other things than material resources or intellectual or social privileges and opportunities. A young man and woman may begin married life with a tolerably clear idea of such a life, however hazy may be their notions as to particular features of it. And the tragedy of the modern home consists in this, that the primary aim seems to be to make it a place for having a 'good time.'"

Beer Capacity of a Munich Porter.

An English family touring in Bavaria called at the world famous Hofbrauhaus, the pride of Munich, writes our correspondent. To the waitress serving them the head of the family in a matter of fact way simply held up his five fingers. To the family's astonishment, the waitress came back with five quart pots filled to the brim with beer. The visitors bravely struggled with the beer, but managed to dispose of only about a quart between them. Knowing that it would be considered an insult to leave beer, they called a porter and ordered him to finish it. In less time than it takes to relate it the Bavarian accomplished the task. Wiping his mustache, he demanded sixpence for the "job" and, having obtained the money, instantly ordered and emptied yet another quart pot.—London Mail.

A Waiter's Amazing Wail.

The waiter spoke indignantly.

"Men go about," he said, "complaining of being mistook for waiters, but it is on the other foot really that the shoe rests. Us waiters are the real complainants in these cases of mistaken identity. Our kicks are sincere. The others' ring false. For at dances and balls and such like crushes many a young man makes money by being mistook for a waiter. How does he make money? Why, he is tipped, and all them tips he pockets, never thinking of handing them over to their rightful owners. At every big affair we count on a loss of 5 per cent through the dishonest advantage that impecunious young swells take of being mistook for waiters."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Savage Sense of Humor.

Lecturing on New Guinea, A. H. Dunning said he once offered a native some smelling salts. After going through extraordinary contortions the native went away, returning soon with another native, whom he compelled to make acquaintance with the salts. The two brought a third, and so on until the whole village had been victimized. The savages watched each new sufferer with the keenest delight and took good care not to let him know what fate awaited him.—London Standard.

Ohio's Pioneer Town.

Marietta was founded in the spring of 1788 by New Englanders, chief among them being General Rufus Putman of Massachusetts, Samuel Holden Parsons of Connecticut and James M. Varnum of Rhode Island. The town was named after the unfortunate Marie Antionette.

HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY.

Keep cheerful. Hunting trouble ruins more nerves than trouble when it is found.

Keep alert minded. There is nothing like getting in a mental rut to make one a hypochondriac.

Keep clean. The close connection of the pores of the skin and good health is being better understood yearly.

Keep active. The inert, lazy woman who won't exercise is usually the one who is always growling about her health.

Keep your feet warm. More cold is taken through the ankles than in any other way, so do not wear low shoes all winter.

Keep out of debt. If there is anything warranted to worry one to death it is money troubles. Care will even kill the nine lived cat, and what gives more care than a bunch of debts with no money to pay them?

Keep away from drugs. The fondness of our American women for dosing themselves on the slightest provocation is a menace to the health of the race. We deserve everything bad the president of Harvard said of us as regards the medicine habit.

If You Do Not Wish to Be Disliked—

Don't meddle. In every community is found a Meddlesome Mattie who is responsible for two-thirds of the misunderstandings that make life such a problem.

Don't complain. What's the use? The chronic complainer travels a long road and pays heavy toll in the way of lost opportunities and pleasures.

Don't rehearse your ailments, physical or otherwise. People have to listen to you not because they are interested, but because they are trying to be polite.

The world is full of pains, heartbreaks. No one has a monopoly of them.

There is a certain grim sort of comfort to be derived from telling how one has lain awake all night keeping company with an aching back. But it only gains for one the reputation of being a bore.

Don't try to boss. It is one of the surest and most direct routes to unloveliness, yet many women travel there to their own undoing.

Learn to mind your own business. It is each individual's prerogative upon reaching years of discretion to shape his own affairs.

Wise is the woman who recognizes this and grants as well as exacts this privilege. She it is who numbers her friends by the score whose domestic life is serenest.

Terrapin.

Terrapin begin laying about the middle of May and hatch in about thirty days. The female terrapin scratches a hole in the sand with her fore paws, deposits her eggs, from thirteen to nineteen, in it and then covers them up and leaves the heat of the sun on the sand to hatch out the young terrapins. They are not much bigger when hatched than a man's thumb nail and are as soft as dough. They crawl around pretty lively and begin to hunt for their food, consisting of small fish, crabs, etc. The first summer they are quite small, and about the first to the middle of November they go into their winter quarters. These consist of some soft mudhole in the marsh or on the bottom of some stream. Here they sleep until about the middle of April or later, when they come out and are of quite respectable size, say four inches in breadth. The next year they are six inches and the third seven inches in breadth. It is undoubtedly while the terrapin slumbers in the mud that he acquires the peculiar qualities for which we admire him. It is the only flesh known which one can crush in his mouth with his tongue without the aid of his teeth. The other animals run about, sleeping only at night. The terrapin sleeps night and day for six or seven months of the year and takes his night naps, too, for the balance of the year.—Baltimore Sun.

Pen Portrait of Grieg.

Here is as vivid a picture of Grieg the man as any that has yet been drawn. A correspondent who saw the noted Scandanavian composer when he received his honorary degree at Cambridge, in England, in 1894, makes it for the Manchester Guardian: "It was a sad and a strong face that we saw, one might almost have said a grim face, but that there was nothing of hardness in it, a face which must have inspired both respect and affection in all who met him. Yet as the little, old looking man stood there in the red and yellow gown of a doctor of music there was something incongruous about his appearance, the head, encircled with long, straight, white hair, appearing above the still stiffer, straighter lines of gaudy brocaded silk, which descended to the ground in the form of a regular cone, and the simile of one visitor, who remarked that they made him look just like a penwiper, was irresistibly accurate."

A Working Majority.

"You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time. But"—

"Why go further?" interrupted Senator Sniffkins. "The two classes you have named constitute a safe working majority."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Deeps Are Dumb.

The greatest golfers seldom talk about their golf any more than the greatest cricketers talk about their cricket. It is the enthusiastic duffer who enjoys conversing about "his game."—London Truth.

MEN AND THEIR CLOTHES.

Americans and Others as Seen by a London Sartorial Critic.

A man's dress invariably proclaims who and what he is. It is an index to his character, his tastes and his nationality, and without making a too abstruse study it is possible to indicate those features which proclaim the nationality of the wearer.

Of course there is an aristocracy of the nations who are difficult to distinguish except by some peculiarity of face or figure. Their clothing is refined and tasteful and leads one to believe that their garments are London made, as they are free from those glaring peculiarities which characterize the products of other countries.

The American's garments are generally quite two sizes too large for him, the collar of his coat is exceedingly narrow and the shoulders and back excessively wide. His jackets are often extremely long and his trousers pegtops finished with raised seams. His favorite garments are the lounge and Chesterfield, and these are often finished in some extraordinary way which he fancies to be original.

The Frenchman is dressy. His garments are close fitting and decidedly "waisty." He favors the frock and the morning coat, which he has finished with as much ornamentation as possible. Silk facings, braided edges and fantastic flaps are all characteristic of his dress, while he also pays a good deal of attention to his hat, tie and cuffs.

The German is in many instances a modified American. He likes plenty of room, especially about the chest, which part of his anatomy he delights to make much of. Consequently there is often a seam up the front of his coat from the waist. In cut his garments are angular, and in style he favors the morning coat and lounge. There is a lack of personality about his attire, and one can invariably detect the result of his military training in the uniformity of his garments.

The Spaniard is a modified form of the Frenchman. His garments are tasteful and neat. If the weather is suitable, he discards a vest, and his jackets are close fitting and finished with a low roll. Generally speaking, there is less peculiarity to note about the Spaniard's dress than with many others.

The Austrian and Hungarian participate in the characteristics of the German, but are more tasteful in the cut and finish, suggesting a skillful blending of French and German notions. On the other hand, the Italian type is a Germanized French style, so that you get more of the artistic finish of the French in their clothing than you find in the Austrian or Hungarian.

The Norwegian and Dane are seldom distinguishable from the Englishman as far as their clothes are concerned, except it be in a preciseness that is apt to suggest stiffness in place of that ease and grace which mark the English garments.

The colonial is invariably attired in utilitarian garb, a tweed lounge suit in a modified English style, cut for comfort and made up for strength. He has no desire for show and cares little for decorations, so that he is rarely seen in a frock or morning coat.—London Tailor and Cutter.

A Critique of a Prayer.

I heard Harry Gaze lecture recently, and he criticised the prayer we teach our infant children to make every night on retiring—"Now I lay me down to sleep," etc.

He said it was a terrible mistake to have placed before the mind of an infant child every day as a part of a prayer the thought of death, as in "if I should die before I wake."

Is it not a serious experiment, this constant placing the thought of death not only, but "sudden death," before the mind of a child every day and day after day of life, and might it not tend to result in early death?

The mind of a child is most impressionable. It should not be allowed to contemplate death and especially the fear of death habitually. Its teachings should be the joy of life, of health, of strength, of the infinite. The prayer should be uplifting, aspiring, joyous.

Character is thus formed.—Clark Bell in Medico-Legal Journal.

Didn't Want Advice.

Senator Burrows was asked for advice recently by a newspaper correspondent. He gave the advice, but afterward, smiling and shaking his head, he said:

"Advice is a thing I am always chary about extending. It is, you know, so cheap, so easy.

"A boy the other day was pushing a heavy pushcart up a hill. The hill was steep, the boy thin. He bent forward at the work till he was almost horizontal.

"'Hi, boy,' called an old man, 'push the cart up the hill zigzag, from side to side, and you'll find it will go easier.'

"The boy snarled back:

"'Not so much o' yer darn advice Give us a shove.'"

Forgetful.

"I suppose," said the beautiful girl, "that you often burn the midnight oil?"

"No," replied the poet. "I hang my hat on the doorknob, so the landlady can't look through the keyhole and catch me burning the gas."—Judge.

Inquisitive.

"I'll send my boy to a boarding school."

"What for?"

"Oh, he asks such questions. He wanted to know last night if a shoemaker could breathe his last."

How He Grew Young.

One satisfied man returned from a two weeks' holiday. He spent it on a farm owned by an old aunt, and the royal way in which she fed him, to use his own description, formed the chief delight of his holiday.

"You see," he remarked confidentially, "my wife is a graduate of a diet and cooking school of the most up to date sort. She sees that we never have a meal which isn't perfectly balanced as to food values. The things we eat are chosen with reference to that and not with regard to whether we like them especially. Well, I can tell you, old Aunt Laura, with her table just groaning with forbidden, indigestible articles, was a mighty welcome change to me. She never heard of carbohydrates or phosphates or cellulose, and she wouldn't know a proteid if she met one in a bean porridge, where, by the way, I believe they largely congregate. But I tell you her fried chicken and fresh pork and biscuits were the finest things I've had for years. My wife actually turned pale when she saw me eat, and I know she was worried, because we were six miles from a doctor. I was never ill for a minute, though, and those two weeks of old fashioned, unscientific cooking have made me feel like a new man—or, rather, like a boy again."—London M. A. P.

Her Conversion.

When preparing his parishioners for the solemn ordinance of confirmation an old clergyman found among them one old woman so excessively ignorant and stupid that for some weeks prior to the time he was obliged to have her come to his house every day in order to instruct and catechise her. At length he began to hope that his time, patience and zeal had not been entirely bestowed in vain, a few bright flashes of understanding having burst from the old dame's clouded intellect. "Now, my good friend," said the worthy pastor just previous to the commencement of the ceremony, "as this is the last moment in which I shall have an opportunity of conversing with you, let me ask, do you thoroughly understand and believe all the articles of your Christian faith?"

"Aye, yes, sir, thank'ee," replied his venerable pupil, with a simper and dropping one of her best courtesies, "I does indeed now, and, thank God, I heartily renounces them all."

The Clock Struck 1.

It was just two minutes to 1 when John Ludlam entered the house and, unwrapping a paper parcel, said to his wife that he had brought her a present of a clock. It was her birthday, and she had expected a brooch or a ring at least, and so she said tartly, "You liked the look of that clock."

His face flushed. "A nice way to speak about a present!" said he hotly.

"Well, it's the truth. I wouldn't have given a couple of shillings for it," said she in an exasperating tone.

John Ludlam was a quick tempered man. The veins in his temples swelled, and—

Just then the clock struck 1.

What did it signify—that the clock was running all right?

It did not. The ambulance surgeon said a few minutes later that if the clock had struck one inch nearer her temple John Ludlam would have been a widower.—Pearson's Weekly.

Many Color Lines In Cuba.

There are social distinctions in Cuba based upon color. There is not one but several color lines, though these are not eternal, hard, fast and unchangeable, as in the United States. In Cuba social life is run largely by social clubs. There are in almost every town and village negro clubs, two or three grades of mulatto clubs and white clubs. In one and at its functions may appear the husband, excluding the wife; in another, the wife, but not the husband; in a third, their children, but neither the father nor mother. To the world this will appear incredible, almost incomprehensible. Here it is convention, fixed, settled, accepted and operative. These distinctions, however, run but for a lifetime.—Army and Navy Life.

Too Much For Him.

"Andrew," said a devoted wife to her husband, "I want a hundred."

"A hundred what?" exclaimed the husband.

"Dollars," she replied calmly.

"What for?"

"Oh, a whole lot of things."

"Um-um," he hesitated. "I guess I shall have to check your extravagance, my dear."

"Do," she smiled, "and make it payable to my order, please."

He collapsed then and there.—Brooklyn Citizen.

The Persian Language.

Persian is said to be not a very difficult language. The modern Persian is very much like the English in its sensible rejection of the inflections that burden so many of the world's tongues. There is no difference of termination to mark the gender either in nouns or adjectives, and all inanimate things are neuter. In other ways the Persian language conforms to the English.

Illegal.

Ethel—That sixteen-year-old boy asked me to marry him. Edith—And you threw him over? Ethel—Yes; told him it was against the law to catch lobsters so young.—Judge's Library.

Not Depressed.

"He says his whole life is a fizzle."

"Is he so pessimistic?"

"Not a bit of it. He's merely the clerk that attends to the soda water drinks."—Baltimore American.

—At 8 o'clock Thursday morning the Cambria Steel company of Johnstown had 1500 men at work. Remember the Hospital

This Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, has been designated as Donation Day at the Bellefonte hospitas, following out the regular yearly custom which has prevailed since we have a hospital. Appealing to all citizens of Bellefonte and Centre county for assistance in the shape of money, clothing, linen, provisions, fuel and supplies of all kinds.

This institution appeals irresistibly to the charitably inclined and should be on the hearts of every citizen who cares ought for his fellowmen. The request for donations should be accorded a cheerful response.

The best gift is money but those who do not regard themselves as able to contribute, can obtain a blessing in other ways. Linens, foods, fuel and products of any kind, are all acceptable, and will be thankfully received.

If every body does his mite this year the Bellefonte hospital will be the best in its history. True charity necessarily entails a sacrifice. There are few people in Bellefonte who cannot give something. So many fail to see the opportunity all around us to do good, that we ought to be grateful when our attention is directed to them.

Our songs of thanksgiving will be hallow mockery, unless we do something to make others thankful. Every well directed charity brings greater blessings upon the donor, than it does upon the recipient. The Bellefonte hospital is engaged in the holy duty of ameliarating the suffering of hopless humanity. No one is too humble to obtain this service.

What better things can we do than to assist in this labor of love, by extending the hospital's field of usefullness.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS IN ANNUAL MEETING

The Attendance this Year Larger than Ever Before.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the School Directors Association was held in Petrikin Hall on November 20th and 21st.

Every School Director in the county is, by virtue of his office, a member of this Association; and the law states that it shall be the duty of each Director in each District in the county to attend this annual meeting.

The law provides for compensation at the rate of two dollars per day, and mileage at the rate of three cents per mile, to be paid by the District which the Director represents.

This meeting last week was considered the greatest gathering in the history of the Association in this County.

The first session opened Wednesday morning at 10:30 with remarks by County Superintendent David O. Etters. His address was filled full of good solid advice and encouragement for the Directors and congratulated them all on the manner in which all their schools were progressing.

He was followed by an address by Hon. W. C. Heinle, President of the Association. Senator Heinle is always an interesting speaker and his address all through was listened to with rapt attention by the entire Association.

"Compulsory School Law" was thoroughly discussed by David F. Fortney Esq.

The afternoon session opened by an excellent address by Dr. C. C. Miller, President of Lima College, Ohio. His subject was "The Education of the Pennsylvania." Dr. Miller was a fayorite speaker both in the Teacher's and Directors sessions. He brought them messages and instructed them in such a thorough manner that we know the schools will be greatly benefitted by having him with us.

Dr. C. H. Gordinier, President of the University of Maryland was the next speaker of the afternoon. He spoke on the subject "When the Directors look good to me." He was followed by an address from David F. Fortney Esq., who used as his subject, "The Need of township High Schools." When Col. Fortney speaks he always means business and he so thoroughly impressed this subject on the Directors minds in a manner that will not very soon be forgotten. He urged that the matter be taken up at home and that in a short time every township will have their own high school.

Thursday afternoons session opened by an address by Dr. J. C. Willis of Lexington, Ky. His subject was "The school and the Community." He was followed by an address by Dr. Nathan C. Shaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, his subject was "Recent Legislation. Col. Fortney closed the session by an address on "School Libraries, their value to the school and community."

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: Hon. W. C. Heinle, of Bellefonte, president; Captain C. T. Frybarger, Philipsburg, David K. Keller of Potter Township, vice-presidents; John P. Harris, Bellefonte, treasurer; Henry C. Quigley, Esq. Bellefonte, secretary; Oscar E. Miles, of Milesburg, assistant secretary.

Walker—Witherite.

On Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock a quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the United Brethren church at Runville, when Miss Irene Witherite of Runville was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to William H. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Walker of Runville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Stuart, pastor of the church. The couple were attended by Miss Agatha Wensel, a cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid and by Jessie Witherite brother of the bride, as groomsman. Following the ceremony a very delightful wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, being attended by the immediate members of the families of the contracting parties, and a few friends.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Witherite of Runville, and is well qualified to assume the duties of her own household.

The groom is a well known farmer of Runville and is well thought of by all who know him.

The bride received quite a number of handsome and useful presents, showing the high regard in which she is held by her friends. There many friends extend congratulations and best wishes for all the good things of life to come.

Thanksgiving Day.

How it would revoluntionize life if we could agree to have one day a year for mourning and complaining, and then be thankful the rest of the time. How much better than to try to be thankful one day by law, and grumble by impulse for three hundred and sixty-four. Let us today sound a thankful note to ring through the year.

We are glad to see Maurice Smith back with us again. Our good friend Col. John A. Daley of Curtin township was in town the entire week attending Institute. Col. Daley although not a school director is to Curtin township the same as Col. Fortney is to the Bellefonte schools, one of the OLD STAND BYS. If more men like Daley and Fortney were elected school directors out through our country districts, the Centre County Directors Association would be made up of bright and intelligent men who would take an active interest in all the departments of school work,

Lawrence O'Leary left Wednesday for Pittsburg, where he will spend Thanksgiving friends.

During his short stay here he has proven himself to be a devoute christian, and through his kind disposition has won many warm friends in Bellefonte who are sincerely sorry to see him leave the town. Captain Henderson is a young man of remarkable ability and is bound to meet with success where ever he may go. His engagement has also been announced, the wedding to take place in the near future.

GORDEN WAS THE STAR PLAYER.

Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Team Certainly Did Wallop Milton.

On Friday evening the Milton basket ball team played our local Y. M. C. A. team and they went down to defeat to a score of 47-18.

Our fellows had received some word that this Milton team was made up of College players and that they were doing everything up along the pike. This report sort of made our boys feel as though they had to work hard if they wanted to win or even score.

But they were foolishbadly fooled for the Miltonians were the easiest marks that ever came down the path. From start to finish our fellows had them under control and kept throwing goals until they had run a score of 47 points up against the silk mill players. The teams were not evenly matched, the Milton fellows were at least 8 to 10 pounds heavier than our fellows, and perhaps that was one of the reasons they were defeated.

The extra ordinary playing of "Crabie" Gorden the young athlete that won a great reputation last winter in the Y. M. C. A. team as a great basket ball player, seemed to carry off the honors on Eriday evening. He is credited with shooting 10 field goals and 3 fouls, making in all 23 of the 47 points won.

Lingle played an excellent game and has 12 points to his credit. Shields has 6 and Miller making the total score 47. Walker was right there with the goods in Centre and covered his man at ease.

We feel proud of the team and extend our congratulations for the magnificent showing in their first game. Physical Director Hubbard can well feel proud of his boys and need not be afraid to shove them up against most any old thing along the "pike." He has worked hard with the boys and we believe his efforts to have a good team have been rewarded.

The line up was as follows.

Milton		Y. M. C. A.
Osborne	Forwards	Lingle
Mervine	"	Gorden
Daggett	Center's	Walker
Tobias	"
Falls	Guards	Miller
Martz	"	Shields

Referee—Hubbard, Time 20 minute halves.

Gen. Beaver Talks on Brotherhood

Ex Governor James A. Beaver spoke at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. During his discourse he brought out very clearly that what the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte needed very much was a "Brotherhood" organization. Most every large church has an organization of this kind and they have proven a wonderful help to the pastor. There was a large attendance and deep interest manifested in the General's inspiring talk. He graphically and earnestly presented facts and incidents that made them real to his hearers. This "Brotherhood" movement began way back there on the banks of the Jordon river when John the Babtist introduced Jesus as the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world. He was our elder brother and His invitation to the first two deciples who asked Him where He abode, to come and see, is a message that has been ringing down the ages ever since. Christ reckoned mankind from the good rather than from the evil that was in us, and developed the good possibilities in man. The "Brotherhood of Man" in this religious organization is a strong factor in changing a man's character and reputation. Every man casts a shadow and his example or influence is for good or for evil.
